

School of Bank Management Trustees

The Virginia Bankers School of Bank Management Trustees is comprised of bankers, many of whom are alumni of the school, who plan strategically for the school's future. As banking industry leaders, the Trustees understand the current issues in banking firsthand. Their experience and insight are instrumental in developing and adapting the school's curriculum to reflect the current state of the industry. The Trustees meet twice annually, including a meeting in Charlottesville on the Thursday of the week of school. You will see many of the Trustees observing classes that day to gain some perspective on this year's program.
