Marci Clodfelter Vice President, Senior Training Manager/ C&F Academy Administrator C&F Bank Toano

. “A proud military brat, I grew up immersed in cultures around the world, shaping my global perspective and adaptability from an early age.

. BA from Clark University, Worcester, MA, majoring in Government and International Relations with minor in Art History- a combination that reflects both my analytical mindset and creative spirit.

. My professional journey began in retail banking, where I spent nearly a decade with Bank of America, progressing from part-time teller to Premier Client Manager, culminating in receiving the Bank of America Award of Excellence in 2008, a testament to my client service and operational excellence.

. In February, 2009, I joined C&F, continuing in retail banking before transitioning to the training space in 2012. That shift marked the beginning of my work building what is now known as C&F Academy. My passion for banking evolved into a passion for developing talent, fostering growth, and creating meaningful learning experiences across the organization.

. I’m an active member of the Williamsburg Chamber of Commerce, and a proud graduate of its collaborative programs with The College of William & Mary, including the Business Transformation Education Program and LEAD.

I’ve also earned training certifications from the University of Richmond, Modern Classroom and the National Council for Mental Wellbeing, further enriching my approach to learning and development. I am also a founding member and current co-chair of the VBA Training Committee.

. Outside of work, I find joy in traveling and adventuring with my family- and our two hilariously oversized dogs, Moose and Willow, who keep life playful and unpredictable.”
